How can RICOH Kintone plus benefit your business?

Reduce data silos and improve collaboration

The platform's cloud-based platform houses all your data in a single shared platform the whole team can access. So when one team member makes an update, the information is available live to all team members. A database history feature lets your teams easily track, catch, and undo data entry errors when they occur.

Eliminate email clutter and redundant conversations

Communicate with your team alongside your data. All conversations are visible in the platform, so team members can catch up quickly — without rehashing past conversations or forwarding emails.

Track workflows from start to finish

With RICOH Kintone plus, it's easy to create custom step-by-step workflows around your data to track processes and tasks from beginning to end. Whether team members need to see time-sensitive deadlines, task statuses, or other project details, all the data is at their fingertips — ensuring projects stay on track.

Drive new insights across your business with custom reporting

The platform's custom reporting features help users visualize important data to make informed decisions about process planning. These features allow users to filter and customize data reports via a variety of colorful graphs, columns, and charts, which they can save and generate at the click of a button.

Empower your team from anywhere

Whether your team's in the office, on the go, or at home, they can securely access their data, conversations, and tasks from anywhere via mobile or desktop.

Save time with automated reminders

Automated reminders and notifications help teams stay on track in a more efficient way. Individuals and managers can set reminders about work deadlines or build automated notifications, for example, to notify team members when work items get reassigned to someone else or when a due date changes.
