Infrastructure as a Service

RICOH
imagine. change.
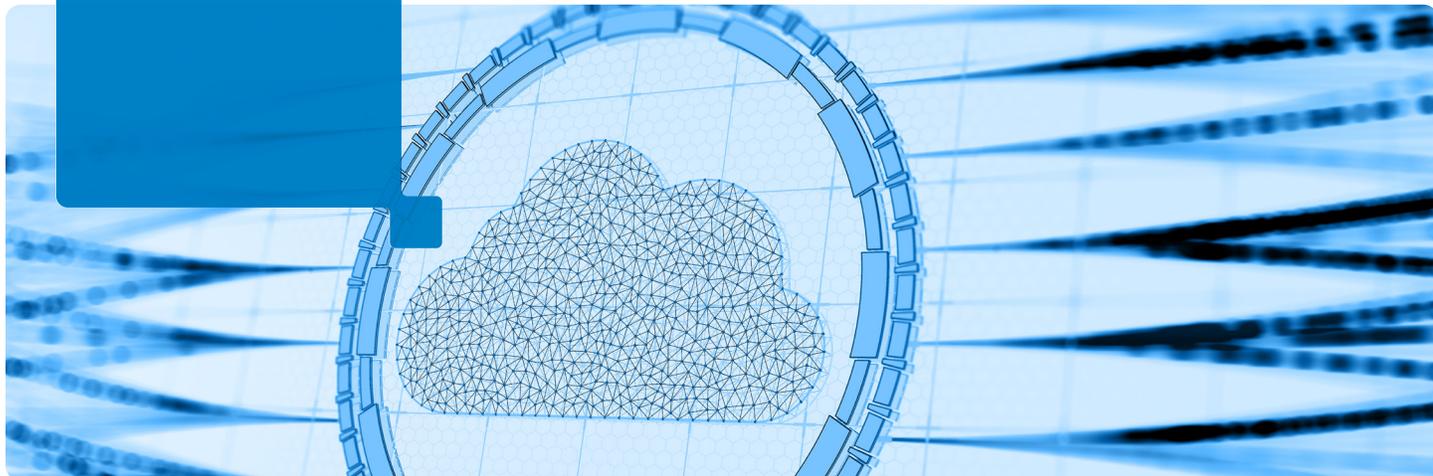

Our scalable cloud environment is supported by in-house experts who specialize in managing complex infrastructure.

Focus on your core business

Many organizations lack the resources or bandwidth to effectively manage complex infrastructure, while monitoring, administering, and troubleshooting for specialized applications. With IaaS, we will migrate your data and applications seamlessly to our industry-leading cloud environment and provide support–letting your team focus on what they do best.

Security in the cloud

Our solutions are all hosted within our industry leading cloud environments, where not only is data encrypted as it moves and at rest, but is supported with policies and procedures for compliance with governing requirements such as FedRAMP, PCI, and HITRUST. It also undergoes consistent review to ensure risk mitigation controls are updated as needed. Electronically Stored Information (ESI) is uploaded directly to our cloud environment and physical media goes through our secure, in-house forensics lab and receives the same attention to detail, chain of custody tracking, and level of scrutiny as all forensics matters.

On-demand scalability

Whether you require storage space that grows organically or the ability to scale up or down on demand, we have you covered. IaaS includes dedicated deployment and we can adjust your server and storage requirements in minute, rather than weeks that it would take to plan and execute on your own.
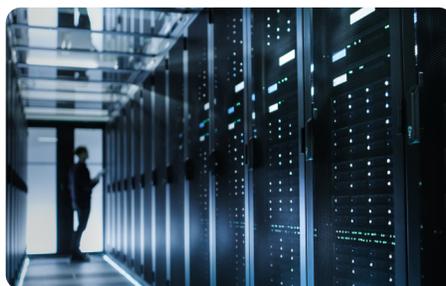

Demonstrable cost savings

With predictable, cost-effective volume and user-based pricing, you pay only for what you use. You'll also eliminate the need for added headcount and avoid the complexity of purchasing, managing and supporting your own servers and applications. All with minimal up-front financial investment.

Ricoh, your trusted partner
